DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 44 recites the limitation "the network events" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1 - 9, 14 - 35, 40 - 46 and 51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being disclosed by Waclawsky et al. (U.S. Pat. No. 5,197,127) (Expert System Method for Performing Window Protocol-Based Data Flow Analysis Within a Data Communication Network).

Art Unit: 2154

4.1 Regarding claim 40, Waclawsky discloses a method of aggregating data packets, the method comprising:

determining, based upon the load of a server computer, whether to aggregate one or more of the data packets into an aggregated data packet (Abstract; col. 2, lines 16 - 20; col. 4, lines 11 - 31); and transmitting the aggregated data packet to a client computer (Abstract; col. 2, lines 16 - 20; col. 4, lines 11 - 31).

4.2 Per claim 41, Waclawsky teaches that the data packets are not aggregated in an aggregated data packet larger than the size of a maximum transmission unit for any intermediary network device that is in the transmission path between the server computer and the client computer (col. 4, lines 2 - 31).

4.3 Regarding claim 42, Waclawsky does not explicitly disclose determining the server load comprises comparing the number of data packets that are overdue to the total number of data packets.

However, the Examiner hereby takes official notice that the detection of overdue packets is a commonplace tactic when optimizing data flow efficiency in a network.

Art Unit: 2154

4.4 Per claim 43, Waclawsky teaches determining the server load comprises comparing the number of network events processed by a server program that is executing on the server computer due to exceeding a time out threshold to the total number of network events that the server program processes (Abstract; col. 2, lines 16 - 20; col. 4, lines 11 - 31).

4.5 Regarding claim 44, Waclawsky does not explicitly disclose that network events are selected from the group comprising: a play command, a pause command, a seek command, a ping command, and a re-send command.

However, the ping command is inherent in Waclawsky because the analysis and tracing of the network.

4.6 Per claim 45, Waclawsky teaches that the server load is based at least in part upon the actual transmission rate between the server computer and the client computer (Abstract; Fig. 13; col. 2, lines 16 - 20; col. 4, lines 11 - 31).

4.7 Regarding claim 46, Waclawsky discloses that the data packets are aggregated in an aggregated data packet until the size of the aggregated data packet exceeds a minimum threshold without exceeding a maximum threshold (Abstract; Fig. 13; col. 2, lines 16 - 20; col. 4, lines 11 - 31).

Art Unit: 2154

4.8 Per claim 51, Waclawsky teaches that the size of the minimum threshold relates to a quality of presentation of the streamable data objects and the maximum threshold relates to a maximum transmission unit (Abstract; col. 2, lines 16 - 20; col. 4, lines 11 - 31).

4.9 Regarding claims 1 - 9, and 14 - 35, the rejection of claims 40 - 46 and 51 (paragraphs 4.1 - 4.8 above) under 35 USC 102(b) applies fully.

In addition, with regard to claims 14, 15, 16 and 23, 24, 25, Waclawsky does not explicitly disclose that the process of transmitting the streamable data objects from server to client comprises increasing the packet size of one or more data packets, increasing the number of channels that are used to transmit the streamable data objects, or either increasing or decreasing the frequency of transmission of one or more data packets.

The Examiner hereby takes official notice that these features are commonplace in the streamable multimedia art in order to increase the speed of transmission, and therefore do not represent patentably distinct features over the prior art.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 10 - 13, 36 - 39, and 47 - 50 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
